Dedication

To Miss Kellas

This a humble mansion built for you
For whom we would build star-set lands

Were there such might in youthful hands,

To make the visions you have shown us, true.

William Glover

The notes, not the words of a half finished sentence;
The music, the silence - - - - -
These will remain.

Alma Mater

Reared on the heights of Ida,
Against the wide-arched sky,
The sunbeams fall athwart thee,
The moonbeams gently lie.
Across thine open hilltop
The winds blow bold and free.
O ye gray walls protecting,
We raise our song to thee.

Come let us sing together
A song of grateful praise;
In honor of our founder
The joyous strain upraise.
'Twas she beheld the vision,
And wrought with steadfast will;
'Tis we with joyous labor
That vision must fulfill.

"Semper Fidelis" singing,
To Emma Willard dear,
Above thy gray walls ringing,
Our song floats sweet and clear.
O touch each fleeting moment
With friendship's alchemy!
The days that lie before us
Our memories soon shall be.

C. L. C.

To the Faculty

There is no greater treasure meets our quest,
There is no greater pot of rainbow's gold
Than fearless knowledge, glowing at its best,
All that an eager mind can grasp and hold.
But there have been false gems to blind our eyes,
And there are devious paths that we may take;
The torch that only flickers once and dies
Does not decry its brilliant light a fake.
There have been those whose friendly touch of hand
Has been a magnet true. You have not failed;
All through the years the tasks that you have planned
Have helped to charter seas as yet unsailed.
No finer memory than this is ours—
Your gracious guidance of these youthful hours.

Senior Song

Words by Gwendolyn Pratt
Music by Cynthia Chamberlain

Dear Emma Willard, swift the days
Have brought the parting of our ways.
We go, nor soon shall we return,
But bright thy spirit torch will burn,
And shed its living rays.

CHORUS

O lovely light, as vestal flame,
Kindled by one of noble name,
We hold thee high that thy clear light
May search the shadows of life's night
And shine a challenge to our aim.

Dear school whose spirit reaches high,
In wisdom spanning earth and sky,
Farewell, but rest within thee deep
The promise that thy faith will keep
Our hearts and eyes held high.

Freshman Class and Points Upward

A train ride, a bit of striped colored silk pinned on our coats, Mr. Dalton with his taxis, and we had arrived! How big everything seemed and how little and lost we were! It was not long, however, until we too strode along the corridors with brows wrinkled over "that terrible algebra lesson," and until we too knew the delights of Sleepovers and Oreos—yes, and we sigh as we remember, of Hersheys at the Tea House. Our first Revels thrilled us and held us spellbound, although our youth condemned us to the Dress Rehearsal. With what a superior delight we took charge of our own tickets and our own selves on this first vacation. Then back we came to our places, better organized and infinitely more at home. We survived Mid-Year Examinations (the capital letters are quite intentional), and before we could realize that the year was nearing its close we were plunged into the excitement of June Day Practice and the delight of Step Singing and evening walks beneath the lilacs. Then came the tulip beds and the chair carrying, the thrill of Senior Play and Class Day, and the beauty of pink and white which help to make up an Emma Willard Commencement.

Didn't it seem nice in the fall to come back and know everyone and everything? But no, not quite everything—a stranger in our midst, the "Perfect Shoe." Now, at last, our uniforms were complete. This was the year when we welcomed the alumnae so warmly with the Playhouse Fire, oh terrible and exciting day! But although the playhouse was gone, it was not long before Miss Kellas took us over to see our beautiful new Assembly Hall. Now we too could go to the real Revels and behold the Boar's Head, the blazing plum pudding, and the enthusiastic guests. We experienced those "growing pains" which trouble the best of Sophomore Classes and then at last we were Juniors.

It was such a big jump that next September. A Junior is so infinitely more important than a Sophomore. But not even the importance of seats in the Upper Study hall nor of our authority in Sage Hall could take away our enjoyment of certain of our former delights. Thanksgiving Dinner was just as much a masterpiece, the troubadour was just as entertaining, and our pound of candy was just as faithfully cherished as ever before. But this was not all! There were the new and heretofore unknown pleasures of abundant free evenings, of Prom, and of Junior-Senior Picnic. All these and more things reminded us that we were NEXT YEAR'S SENIORS! Then came the thrill of joy when the first meeting of the Incoming Seniors was called. How important we felt as we chose our own Head of Student Government and our own Council, as we sang to the Seniors at Senior Dinner and as we ordered our Senior Rings. We were promoted to bed-making at Commencement, and, pillow-laden, strode past the lowly tulip-diggers and lilac-cutters, with noses turned up in scorn. And then (oh final stroke of happiness!) we grew several inches with pride as we took our places on the steps (Library Steps though they were) and became the Senior Class of 1932.

This year when we returned to the familiar home of "verbal forms, pediformes, and uniforms with collars," the homecoming was just a little different. Gone were the days of alarm clocks in the Study hall! Gone were the nights of dark ramblings in search of feasting Seniors. In their place was a sense of dignity and responsibility. Revels lost nothing by repetition, but rather gained in beauty and in significance as we realized that it was our last. As the painful beauty of "Cantique de Noël" drifted down to us in the Library, we felt we could not, would not give it all up, that it could not be gone forever. But who could remain sad or thoughtful when COFFEE in the LIBRARY was awaiting? So joyous laughter carried us past one more milestone in our school lives. Sweet strains of music and pleasant partners whiled away several of our evenings, and Senior themes made days fly all too quickly. Our Senior Song, our Hoops, our Senior Play practice—as each arrived we felt again that thrill of importance. But now that the delight of Senior Dinner has passed and our longed-for Commencement Day draws near, we begin to wonder a little about the future and to feel the sorrow of parting. We shall miss the close comradeship of our old friends; we shall miss this lovely hill-top; and the teachers; and most of all, Miss Kellas, we shall miss you who have worked for us so lovingly and have guided us so inspiringly; and as we leave these gray walls, a part of the spirit which you, by your example and your teaching have instilled in us, will go with us and light for us the way.

with a flared skirt

and low-cut back

Yes, we're wearing skirts this summer! But what this little jersey suit gains in modesty, it does not lose in speed. It fits divinely in or out of water, for the skirt is cut on the bias so that it clings to the figure except for a slight ripple at the hem. The low-back is deep enough to allow you a good, even tan that will not interfere with your evening necklines. In black or Castilian red with white, royal blue with corn.

. . . shoes with strut!

To "make the gown walk" the smart mannequin balances herself in Pediforme Shoes . . . and she may have pilfered the idea from some ultra-modern patron. (Many pairs travel to Europe). Skirts that hang and swing to suit the couturier must be pedalled on non-wabbly heels and non-wavering insteps!

▾ ▾ ▾ ▾ into Year Books

YOUR college year book will increase in value as time goes by. Ten . . . twenty years from now it will be one of your most cherished possessions. As you turn its pages you will live again your joyous college days . . . see the faces of old friends . . . favorite spots on the campus.

A college annual should be the finest expression of the printer's art. Annuals by Brandow are that kind. For we feel obligated to live up to the confidence expressed by thirty-one leading schools and colleges for whom we created year books last year.

The printing of college annuals is, with us, more than the production of beautiful volumes . . . it is a hobby—for we revel in the true job of creative, artistic craftsmanship. To withstand constant handling the covers are as sturdy as artistic. The type is clear, harmonious, balanced. A patented process makes it possible for us to produce cuts which retain all the pristine clearness of the original photographs. So well do we serve our schools that invariably the staffs have recommended us to their successors.

It will be a pleasure to discuss with you the details of your next annual.
